

YOUNG WOMEN MADE NOVICES

Twenty-two Get Bridal Veils at St. Mary's and Start Their Five Years of Probation, Wednesday.

In the chapel of St. Mary's on Wednesday morning 22 young women knelt to receive the bridal veils of the novitiate. The services, which marked the close of the annual retreat of the order, were conducted by the Very Rev. Andrew Morrissey, C. S. C., assisted by Rev. Joseph Boyle, C. S. C., as deacon, and Rev. Wendell Corcoran, C. S. C., as sub-deacon. Several other priests were in attendance in the sanctuary.

Rev. Father Cagney, C. P., master of the retreat, delivered an eloquent address using for his text "You have not chosen me, but I, your God, have chosen you."

Those who accepted the white veil will enter upon their novitiate, spending two years in the religious life and in study preparing for the particular pursuits which they have chosen to follow. At the end of two years they will be given the black veil and will accept the first vows of sisterhood. Three years will then elapse before they are required to take the final vows. On Aug. 15 the final vows will be administered to those who are ready to accept them.

Following the services a reception to relatives and friends was given for the novices, who will begin their novitiate at once. They are the following:

Alva Olmstead, Employed on Street Improvement, Hurt While Driving Near Excavation.

Alva Olmstead, employed on the gang working on the street improvement on Prairie av., sustained a broken leg Wednesday afternoon when he fell off his wagon.

In an attempt to drive close to an excavation the bank gave way and Olmstead's team slipped in and pulled the wagon after them. In tipping, Olmstead rolled off and in some manner permitted his right leg to slip under the front wheel. The bone was broken between the knee and ankle. Drs. Charles and Edgar Myers were called and the man was removed to the Epworth hospital. No other injuries were found.

WOMAN LAST AT THE CROSS; FIRST AT TOMB

Rev. J. L. Gardiner Pays Tribute to the Work Done by Women for Christianity.

Despite the hot weather a large crowd attended the mid-week services held at St. Paul's M. E. church Wednesday evening. The Woman's Home Missionary society attended in a body and the pastor, Rev. James Leonard Gardiner, gave an address on the subject, "Woman's Work in the Church."

He spoke of the important part played by the woman in work of the church, during all ages, touching briefly on the lives and work of some of them in both the old and new testament. He said that woman was the last at the cross and the first at the tomb. In losing her set forth some of the magnificent things that had been accomplished by the efforts of the W. H. M. S.

A short business session followed, conducted by the president, Mrs. F. C. Koos, during which routine business was transacted.

EVERYBODY WAS DOING IT Bad Axe, Mich., Takes a Holiday to Build Roads.

BAD AXE, Mich., July 17.—Every store and business house in the city was closed Wednesday and 1,000 merchants, business and professional men donned overalls, shouldered pick and shovel and joined in the big roadmaking "bee" on the Sheridan-Bingham town line. The project has aroused much enthusiasm and a proclamation, was recently issued by Mayor Whitney declaring a civic holiday.

Wives and sweethearts of the road builders journeyed to the scene in automobiles and prepared meals for the toilers.

JANIE—GOOD TIME SUMMER GIRL—CAN'T FORGET HER TOM,
AND THE OTHER FELLOWS CAN'T FILL TOM'S PLACE IN JANIE'S LOVING HEART.

Another Picture and a Fable From the Fascinating Pen of ALICE GODDARD.

This pretty Janie is pensive tonight for she is obliged to sit on the front steps of the city boarding house while her real Tom is away at the seashore.

"Why couldn't that old department store manager let me go on my vacation the same time that Tom did?" she thinks. Although Harold sits beside her and Phil bends over her shoulder and Jimmie proffers a box of chocolates and Bob comes up with a great bunch of dewy roses she cannot help wondering if Tom is strolling down the sands under the silvery moon with some other girl.

Is he wishing she was with him or is he taking to heart the poet's advice—"If far away from the lips that you You've but to make love to the lips that are near."

All the other boys are whispering honeyed words to Janie and each one is hoping in his heart that he will win her before Tom comes back, for the moonlight is just as witching as it shines on the city steps, and the girl is just as sweet as though the time and place was a summer night on the seashore.

Moonlight, bon bons, flowers and flattery; will Janie be able to withstand them and still be constant to Tom? Who can tell? Some disgruntled poet swain has said that "Woman is as inconstant as the moon."

Just now she thinks she will be true, but there are ten more moonlight nights before she will see him again and each of her admirers is laying determined siege to her heart. "Oh, Tom—Tom," says Janie to herself, "why did you go away and leave me during this summer time which you taught me was girl time and love time? Don't you know that distance does NOT make the heart grow fonder—in the summer time?"

The most recent picture of J. P. Morgan, the head of the great house of Morgan, is seen in this photograph with his wife, who was Jane N. Crew before her marriage. Morgan makes daily trips to business from his summer home, Central Island, Outer Bay, L. I., aboard his steam yacht Mermala. The yacht is usually anchored off the New York Yacht club station at 23rd st. and East river. On many of these daily excursions to business Mrs. Morgan accompanies her husband to the city, where they are met by an automobile. Mrs. Morgan does her shopping and makes calls, returning with her husband in the evening.

A speedy, permanent and lasting cure is what I will give you beyond a doubt if your case is curable; if not, I will not accept your money and promise to do anything for you.
